

The 60th Sheep Hills

ANZAC Day Dawn Service 2016
on the Wimmera Plains, Victoria

At 6am, the sky begins to lighten.

People, band and marchers gather.

The parade marches to the Cenotaph.

Wreaths are laid.

The sun comes up over the horizon.

The service is held in the Hall.

The service is a remembrance,

led by the Warracknabeal Sub-Branch of the Returned Services League,
and
with music and song led by the Warracknabeal and District Brass Band.

There is also prayer, and a guest speaker providing new insights.

The Anzac Requiem is read.

It reminds us that the ANZAC Day remembrance,
may have begun with the Great War at Gallipoli
that now covers many conflicts zones to today:

Palestine, the Middle East, France, Belgium and
southern Europe, Asia - from Korea, to the southeast to Afghanistan,
and across the Pacific.

where Australians have gone to aid others
as combatants or as peace keepers:
and some of whom may not have come home.

After the service, a warm breakfast is served in the supper room.

The band and many of those marching will go to the next ANZAC Day at Brim
and then to the service at Warracknabeal - marching from the Memorial to ANZAC Park.

Lest we forget.
